EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION 2018-EAB-1162

Affirmed No Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On November 7, 2018, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding the employer discharged claimant for misconduct (decision #74849). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On December 5, 2018, ALJ Meerdink conducted a hearing, and on December 6, 2018, issued Order No. 18-UI-120768, concluding that the employer discharged claimant, but not for misconduct. On December 20, 2018, the employer filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

With its application for review, the employer submitted a written argument. However, the employer failed to certify that it provided a copy of its argument to the other parties as required by OAR 471-041-0080(2)(a) (October 29, 2006). The employer's argument also contained information that was not part of the hearing record, and it failed to show that factors or circumstances beyond its reasonable control prevented it from offering the information during the hearing as required by OAR 471-041-0090 (October 29, 2006). For these reasons, EAB did not consider the employer's argument or any information not received into evidence at the hearing when reaching this decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Connect Wireless employed claimant as a retail sales consultant from August 10, 2018 to September 27, 2018. Claimant's duties included selling wireless telephones and contracts for wireless services.

- (2) The employer had a contract with AT&T to sell AT&T phones and services. As part of that contract, AT&T required the employer to have its retail sales consultants complete monthly online trainings by the 25th of the month. If a consultant did not complete the required trainings, the employer was not to permit that consultant to sell AT&T products and services. As a result of that contract, the employer had a written policy that stated, in pertinent part, "All employees are required to show 100% compliance on the AT&T training report by the 25th of each month." Audio Record ~ 6:50 to 7:10. By mid-September 2018, claimant was aware of and understood the employer's AT&T trainings policy.
- (3) In September 2018, claimant went online to complete the required trainings. Despite completing them all, some of the trainings did not display as completed in the online system. Claimant redid the trainings, took screenshots of the completed trainings, and submitted those screenshots to both his store manager and area manager.

(4) On September 27, 2018, claimant's online training record still showed that he had not completed two different required trainings. Based on that record, and before investigating and inquiring of claimant about the trainings, the employer discharged claimant for failing to complete the required online trainings in a timely manner.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: We agree with the ALJ. The employer discharged claimant, but not for misconduct.

ORS 657.176(2)(a) requires a disqualification from unemployment insurance benefits if the employer discharged claimant for misconduct connected with work. OAR 471-030-0038(3)(a) (January 11, 2018) defines misconduct, in relevant part, as a willful or wantonly negligent violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee, or an act or series of actions that amount to a willful or wantonly negligent disregard of an employer's interest. OAR 471-030-0038(1)(c) defines wanton negligence, in relevant part, as indifference to the consequences of an act or series of actions, or a failure to act or a series of failures to act, where the individual acting or failing to act is conscious of his or her conduct and knew or should have known that his or her conduct would probably result in a violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee In a discharge case, the employer has the burden to establish misconduct by a preponderance of the evidence. Babcock v. Employment Division, 25 Or App 661, 550 P2d 1233 (1976).

The employer discharged claimant for failing to complete required AT&T online trainings in a timely manner. The employer based its decision on the AT&T online training report for September 2018 which, based on hearsay testimony from the employer's witness, reportedly showed that claimant had not completed two required September trainings by the 25th of the month. However, at hearing, claimant explained that he did complete the two trainings in question in a timely manner and, prior to discharge, provided screenshots of the completed trainings to both his store manager and area manager, neither of whom testified at hearing. He also asserted that the store manager told him the system "was messed up." Audio Record ~ 31:00 to 33:45. Absent a reasonable basis in the record for concluding that claimant was not a credible witness, we find that his first-hand testimony was more persuasive than the employer's hearsay and for that reason based our findings on claimant's evidence regarding completing the trainings. Accordingly, the employer failed to meet its burden to establish that claimant failed to complete the required AT&T online trainings for September 2018 in a timely manner.

The employer discharged claimant, but not for misconduct under ORS 657.176(2)(a). Claimant is not disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits on the basis of his work separation.
