

EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2019-EAB-0322

Affirmed
No Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On February 12, 2019, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served, by mail, notice of an administrative decision concluding the employer discharged claimant for misconduct (decision # 111908). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On March 5, 2019, the Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) served, by mail, notice of a hearing scheduled for March 18, 2019. On March 18, 2019, ALJ Griffin conducted the hearing, at which the employer failed to appear, and issued Order No. 19-UI-126581, concluding that claimant's discharge was not for misconduct. On March 28, 2019, the employer filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

In its application for review, the employer argued that it failed to appear at the March 18th hearing because OAH did not mail the March 5th notice of hearing to the employer's address of record with the Department, as required under OAR 471-040-0015(1). In support of that argument, the employer asserted that it telephoned EAB and was told the notice of hearing was mailed to "the shop owner's address," and that, "Every other letter we have gotten had come directly to Capitol Green Leaf, so it made no sense why that letter was sent to a different address." We infer that the employer is requesting another hearing on decision # 111908, which is construed as a request for consideration of new information regarding claimant's work separation. Such information may be considered if the employer establishes that factors or circumstances beyond its reasonable control prevented it from appearing at the March 18th hearing and offering its information into evidence at that time. See OAR 471-041-0090(2) (October 29, 2006).

EAB has no record of the employer calling EAB, but Department records show that the employer telephoned the Department on March 20th and asserted that it did not receive the notice of hearing. However, they do not show that the Department informed the employer that OAH mailed the notice to an address other than the employer's address of record with the Department.¹ The notice of hearing's certificate of mailing states that it was mailed to Capitol Green Leaf at its address of record with the Department on Capitol Street NE in Salem, Oregon.² That is the same address to which the Department mailed the February 12th notice of decision # 111908. It also is the same address to which OAH mailed Order No. 19-UI-126581, and the employer did not indicate in its application for review that the Order was mailed to the wrong address. It is also the address that appeared on the form the employer used to appeal this case to EAB, and the employer did not provide a different address to EAB or request that EAB change its address to a different one. The record therefore shows that the notice of hearing likely was mailed to the employer at its address of record with the Department, and that any contrary information the employer received from the Department on March 20th likely was incorrect.

Documents sent through the U.S. Postal service are presumed to have been received by the addressee, subject to evidence to the contrary. OAR 137-003-0520(9). Absent evidence to support its contention that the notice of hearing was mailed to the wrong address, the employer's assertion that it did not receive the notice is insufficient to overcome that presumption that it did. The employer therefore failed to establish that factors or circumstances beyond its reasonable control prevented it from appearing at the March 18th hearing and offering its information into evidence at that time. The employer's request for consideration of new information regarding claimant's work separation therefore is denied.

EAB reviewed the entire hearing record. On de novo review and pursuant to ORS 657.275(2), the Order under review is adopted.
