

EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2019-EAB-0350

Reversed & Remanded

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On March 6, 2019, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding the employer discharged claimant for misconduct (decision # 110019). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On March 13, 2019, the Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) mailed notice of a hearing scheduled for March 25, 2019. On March 25, 2019, ALJ Wyatt conducted a hearing, at which the employer did not appear, and on April 2, 2019 issued Order No. 19-UI-127471, concluding claimant's discharge was not for misconduct. On April 5, 2019, the employer filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

With its application for review, the employer requested a new hearing. The employer's request is construed as a request for EAB to consider additional information under OAR 471-041-0090(2), which allows EAB to consider new information only if it is relevant and material to EAB's determination, and factors or circumstances beyond the party's reasonable control prevented the party from offering the information into the hearing record.

In support of the employer's request, the employer stated that he had planned to participate in the hearing despite being on a family vacation trip. The employer stated that he could not appear because "I did not know that our vacation rental would be in an area with no cell reception or internet access. By the time I discovered this, there was no reasonable way for me to communicate to the Appeals Board [sic] with enough time to reschedule."

The employer's statement suggests that the lack of cell reception at the time of the hearing might have amounted to a factor or circumstance beyond his control that prevented him from participating in the hearing and offering evidence about claimant's work separation. However, the employer did not provide enough detail to allow his request to offer additional evidence, and additional evidence is required. This matter is therefore set aside, and remanded for a hearing on whether or not the employer has good cause to reopen the March 25th hearing.

On remand, the employer should be prepared to testify about the location of the vacation rental, whether he'd been there before, why he thought he would have cell reception there, whether he asked anyone about cell reception at that location, when he arrived at the vacation rental, what date and time he realized that he did not have cell reception, when that occurred in proximity to the date and time of the hearing, and what if any efforts he made to try to go somewhere with cell reception so he could participate in the hearing. The employer should also be prepared to testify about whether he asked to borrow a landline to either call into the hearing or ask that it be rescheduled, or why not. The ALJ should ask any additional questions necessary to develop a full record as to whether or not the employer has good cause to reopen the hearing.

Only if the employer shows good cause to reopen the hearing would the employer then be entitled to a hearing about the work separation.

DECISION: Order No. 19-UI-127471 is set aside, and this matter remanded for further proceedings consistent with this order.

J. S. Cromwell and S. Alba;
D. P. Hettle, not participating.

DATE of Service: April 19, 2019

NOTE: The failure of any party to appear at the hearing on remand will not reinstate Order No. 19-UI-127471 or return this matter to EAB. Only a timely application for review of the subsequent Order will cause this matter to return to EAB.
