EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION 2019-EAB-0614

Affirmed Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On May 15, 2019, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that claimant voluntarily left work for good cause (decision # 134227). The employer filed a timely request for hearing. On June 18, 2019, ALJ M. Davis conducted a hearing, and on June 19, 2019 issued Order No. 19-UI-131908, reversing the Department's decision. On July 3, 2019, claimant filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

Claimant's argument contained information that was not part of the hearing record, and did not show that factors or circumstances beyond claimant's reasonable control prevented them from offering the information during the hearing. Under ORS 657.275(2) and OAR 471-041-0090 (May 13, 2019), EAB considered only information received into evidence at the hearing when reaching this decision.

Had EAB considered claimant's additional information, this decision would be the same because there was nothing in the additional information tying the safety investigations described in it to the worksite at which claimant worked or the pipe that needed to be removed sometime after April 22, 2019. There also was nothing in the additional information undercutting the employer's testimony that, at the time claimant quit, the employer had already arranged for an asbestos abatement contractor to remove the pipe that claimant considered objectionable and claimant would not have been required to remove it.

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Vanco Contracting LLC employed claimant as a carpenter from November 7, 2018 until April 22, 2019.

(2) Beginning sometime before April 2019, the employer was remodeling a building. In late March 2019, the employer realized that the asbestos abatement contractor he hired had missed removing a few pipes containing asbestos. The employer contacted the abatement contractor and was told that it was safe for the crew to move the pipes if they followed certain steps. The employer gathered the crew together on the worksite, told them about the asbestos, and gave them instructions about removing the pipes. The employer also told the crew that they could choose not to participate in removing the pipes. Claimant volunteered to help and he and other crewmembers moved at least one pipe.

(3) As of April 22, 2019, there was one pipe believed to contain asbestos remaining in the ceiling that needed to be removed. The employer had already scheduled a time for the asbestos abatement contractor to remove that pipe.

(4) On April 22, 2019, while at the worksite the employer asked claimant why he had framed a wall that the employer had asked him to postpone framing. Claimant felt that the employer was becoming hostile towards him and commented, "Are you freaking kidding me?" Audio at ~5:56. The employer told claimant that if he did not stop that type of behavior, he should go home. Claimant left the workplace and did not return thereafter. Claimant quit work because he felt that the employer was going to ask him to remove the remaining pipe in the ceiling suspected of containing asbestos. Claimant did not ask the employer if he would be required to remove that pipe.

A claimant who leaves work voluntarily is disqualified from the receipt of benefits unless they prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that they had good cause for leaving work when they did. ORS 657.176(2)(c); Young v. Employment Department, 170 Or App 752, 13 P3d 1027 (2000). "Good cause . . . is such that a reasonable and prudent person of normal sensitivity, exercising ordinary common sense, would leave work." OAR 471-030-0038(4) (December 23, 2018). The standard is objective. McDowell v. Employment Department, 348 Or 605, 612, 236 P3d 722 (2010). A claimant who quits work must show that no reasonable and prudent person would have continued to work for their employer for an additional period of time.

At hearing, claimant did not challenge the employer's testimony that in March 2019, claimant and other crewmembers were permitted to decide whether they would participate in removing the pipes suspected of containing asbestos and they were given instructions on how to do so safely. Claimant also did not challenge the employer's testimony that, as of the day claimant quit, the employer had already arranged for an asbestos abatement contractor to remove the one remaining pipe suspected of containing asbestos and the employer was not going to ask claimant or the crew to remove that pipe. A reasonable and prudent person in claimant's circumstances, exercising ordinary common sense, would not have quit work without first clarifying with the employer that he or other crewmembers were going to be required to remove the pipe suspected of containing asbestos. Claimant did not make a reasonable inquiry to determine if his circumstances were grave before deciding to leave work.

Other than the possibility of being asked to remove a pipe suspected of containing asbestos, claimant gave no other reasons for leaving work when he did, and none can be discerned from the record. On this record, claimant did not meet his burden to show good cause for leaving work when he did. Claimant is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits.
