

EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2020-EAB-0780

Affirmed
Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On October 2, 2020, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that claimant quit work with good cause and was not disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits (decision # 115632). The employer filed a timely request for hearing. On November 25, 2020, ALJ Frank conducted a hearing, and on December 3, 2020 issued Order No. 20-UI-157189, concluding that claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving benefits effective February 9, 2020. On December 10, 2020, claimant filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

WRITTEN ARGUMENT: Claimant did not declare that they provided a copy of their argument to the opposing party or parties as required by OAR 471-041-0080(2)(a) (May 13, 2019). The argument also contained information that was not part of the hearing record, and did not show that factors or circumstances beyond claimant's reasonable control prevented them from offering the information during the hearing as required by OAR 471-041-0090 (May 13, 2019). EAB considered only information received into evidence at the hearing when reaching this decision. See ORS 657.275(2).

Claimant asserted that the hearing proceedings were unfair or the ALJ was biased. EAB reviewed the hearing record in its entirety, which shows that the ALJ inquired fully into the matters at issue and gave all parties reasonable opportunity for a fair hearing as required by ORS 657.270(3) and (4) and OAR 471-040-0025(1) (August 1, 2004).

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) ABC Industries employed claimant from February 13, 2020 until February 15, 2020, where he assisted with the production of ductwork for coal-mining operations.

(2) Prior to working for the employer, claimant had been certified as an overhead crane operator, and was familiar with industry safety standards for operating overhead cranes, such as using hand signals to communicate with workers on the ground. While working for the employer, claimant did not observe his coworkers adhering to those standards.

(3) During claimant's shift on February 14, 2020, a coworker directed him to crawl into a piece of ductwork to retrieve a liner. Once claimant was inside, a crane operator began lifting the duct, causing claimant to fall a short distance to the ground. Claimant did not sustain injuries in the fall.

(4) After the incident on February 14, 2020, claimant completed the rest of his shift without reporting the incident to the employer. Claimant decided not to report the incident because he had already determined that he was going to resign.

(5) On February 15, 2020, because of the incident the previous day and claimant's concern that the employer would not enforce safety standards on the jobsite, claimant resigned.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: Claimant quit work without good cause.

A claimant who leaves work voluntarily is disqualified from the receipt of benefits unless they prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that they had good cause for leaving work when they did. ORS 657.176(2)(c); Young v. Employment Department, 170 Or App 752, 13 P3d 1027 (2000). "Good cause . . . is such that a reasonable and prudent person of normal sensitivity, exercising ordinary common sense, would leave work." OAR 471-030-0038(4) (September 22, 2020). "[T]he reason must be of such gravity that the individual has no reasonable alternative but to leave work." OAR 471-030-0038(4). The standard is objective. McDowell v. Employment Department, 348 Or 605, 612, 236 P3d 722 (2010). A claimant who quits work must show that no reasonable and prudent person would have continued to work for their employer for an additional period of time.

The record contains some conflicting evidence regarding the incident on February 14, 2020 that led claimant to quit. In particular, claimant testified that he fell out of the duct, while the employer's witness testified that claimant did not fall out. Audio Record at 13:30 to 13:55, 24:01 to 24:21. The employer's witness, however, admitted that he did not personally witness the incident, which was instead described to him by the employer's plant manager, who also did not witness the incident. Audio Record at 23:22 to 23:55. Because claimant was a direct witness to the incident, his account of that incident is likely to be more accurate than the employer's account of the incident.

Even finding that claimant fell out of the duct, however, claimant has not described circumstances of such gravity that he had no reasonable alternative but to leave work. Claimant did not sustain injuries in the February 14, 2020 accident, and admitted in his testimony that it was not a "life-threatening situation." Audio Record at 14:35. Even though claimant did not sustain injuries, an accident that resulted from the failure to meet workplace safety standards is a reasonable cause for concern. However, after the incident occurred, claimant did not pursue the reasonable alternative of speaking to the employer about the incident, thereby giving the employer the opportunity to implement proper safety standards. Notably, the employer testified that, after claimant informed them of the incident when he resigned, the employer took steps to ensure that such accidents would not occur again. Audio Record at 26:00. The employer's response to the complaint shows that complaining to the employer about the type of incident that occurred on February 14, 2020 would not have been futile. Claimant did not contradict the employer's assertion that it addressed claimant's complaint after he quit, nor did he explain why he would have been unable to continue working for the employer if the employer had addressed his safety concern. As such, claimant has not shown that no reasonable and prudent person would have continued to work for their employer for an additional period of time.

For these reasons, claimant voluntarily quit work without good cause, and is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective February 9, 2020.
