

EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2021-EAB-0474

Affirmed
Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On February 11, 2021, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective December 20, 2020 (decision # 110559). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On March 30, 2021, ALJ Snyder conducted a hearing at which the employer failed to appear, and on April 1, 2021 issued Order No. 21-UI-163941, concluding that claimant voluntarily left work with good cause and was not disqualified from receiving benefits. On April 8, 2021, the employer filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB). On May 14, 2021, EAB issued EAB Decision 2021-EAB-0270, reversing Order No. 21-UI-163941 and remanding the matter for further development of the record. On June 8, 2021, ALJ Snyder conducted a hearing, and on June 11, 2021 issued Order No. 21-UI-168608, concluding that claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving benefits effective December 20, 2020. On June 14, 2021, claimant filed an application for review of Order No. 21-UI-168608 with EAB.

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Riverside Carpentry LLC employed claimant as a finish carpenter from October 2019 until December 23, 2020.

(2) While claimant worked for the employer, he lived with his parents in Gresham, Oregon. Claimant's mother had myofascial syndrome, and at some time in 2019, was no longer able to work due to this medical condition. After his mother stopped working, claimant's parents decided to move to Florida. They sold the house where they lived with claimant in Portland, and purchased a house in Florida.

(3) Claimant could not afford to purchase a place to live within commuting distance of the employer. Claimant had no friends or family members with whom he could stay on a long-term basis. Claimant did not attempt to find a place to rent within commuting distance of the employer before he quit work with the employer.

(4) Claimant determined that he could not afford to live other than in his parents' home. On December 9, 2020, claimant gave the employer notice that he would quit work on December 23, 2020 to assist his parents with preparing to move to Florida, and to move to Florida with his parents, where he would continue to live with them.

(5) On December 23, 2020, claimant quit work to assist his parents with moving to Florida, and to move to Florida to live with them.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: Claimant quit work without good cause.

A claimant who leaves work voluntarily is disqualified from the receipt of benefits unless they prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that they had good cause for leaving work when they did. ORS 657.176(2)(c); Young v. Employment Department, 170 Or App 752, 13 P3d 1027 (2000). “Good cause . . . is such that a reasonable and prudent person of normal sensitivity, exercising ordinary common sense, would leave work.” OAR 471-030-0038(4) (September 22, 2020). “[T]he reason must be of such gravity that the individual has no reasonable alternative but to leave work.” OAR 471-030-0038(4). The standard is objective. McDowell v. Employment Department, 348 Or 605, 612, 236 P3d 722 (2010). A claimant who quits work must show that no reasonable and prudent person would have continued to work for their employer for an additional period of time.

Per OAR 471-030-0038(5)(g), leaving work with good cause includes, but is not limited to, leaving work due to compelling family reasons. “Compelling family reasons” is defined under OAR 471-030-0038(1)(e) as follows:

* * *

(B) The illness or disability of a member of the individual’s immediate family necessitates care by another and the individual’s employer does not accommodate the employee’s request for time off[.]

* * *

In relevant part, OAR 471-030-0038(1)(f) defines “a member of the individual’s immediate family,” as used in OAR 471-030-0038(1)(e)(B), above, to include parents.

The record does not show that claimant left work due to a compelling family reasons as defined by OAR 471-030-0038(1)(e)(B). Thus, to the extent claimant left work when he did because his mother had an illness or disability, the record does not show that claimant left work with good cause. Although the record shows that claimant assisted his parents with moving to Florida, it does not show that claimant quit work because his mother’s illness or disability necessitated personal care from claimant. Rather, he quit work to help his parents move their belongings to Florida, and to continue living with his parents, in Florida, but not to care for his mother.

To the extent claimant quit work based on his assertion that rent was too expensive in the Portland area for him to find an affordable rental that would enable him to continue working for the employer, claimant failed to establish good cause to quit when he did. Claimant faced a grave situation due to having to find an affordable place to live that would enable him to continue to live and work in the Portland area. However, claimant did not look for a rental. Absent an effort on claimant’s part to look for an affordable rental that would enable him to continue working for the employer, claimant did not meet his burden to show that he had no reasonable alternative but to quit when he did. Claimant had the reasonable alternative of looking for an affordable rental near his work, and did not show it would have been futile to do so rather than quit work.

For the above reasons, claimant quit work without good cause and is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective December 20, 2020.
