

EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2021-EAB-0560

Affirmed
Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On April 30, 2021, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective May 31, 2020 (decision # 125843). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On May 18, 2021, the Department served notice of an amended administrative decision<sup>1</sup> vacating and replacing decision # 125843 and concluding that claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective May 31, 2020 (decision # 100533). Claimant filed a timely request for hearing. On June 22, 2021, ALJ Scott conducted a hearing, and on June 23, 2021 issued Order No. 21-UI-169298, affirming decision # 125843. This matter comes before EAB based on claimant's July 12, 2021 application for review, which EAB construes to apply to Order No. 21-UI-169298 and decision # 100533.

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Pacific Cast Technologies, Inc. employed claimant as a senior wax assembler from May 19, 2014 to June 1, 2020. The employer is a non-union workplace with no collective bargaining agreement in effect.

(2) Prior to May 26, 2020, the employer decided to conduct a layoff of employees due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. The employer's layoff decision methodology was to first consider employees with a disciplinary history, and then consider employees based on seniority with the company. Because of claimant's seniority, she was not at risk for being laid off.

(3) On May 26, 2020, claimant volunteered in writing to be laid off. Claimant believed that by doing so, she might spare another employee from being laid off. But for claimant's decision to volunteer, the employer had continuing work available for her to perform.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: Claimant voluntarily quit working for the employer without good cause.

A claimant who leaves work voluntarily is disqualified from the receipt of benefits unless they prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that they had good cause for leaving work when they did. ORS 657.176(2)(c); Young v. Employment Department, 170 Or App 752, 13 P3d 1027 (2000). “Good cause . . . is such that a reasonable and prudent person of normal sensitivity, exercising ordinary common sense, would leave work.” OAR 471-030-0038(4) (September 22, 2020). “[T]he reason must be of such gravity that the individual has no reasonable alternative but to leave work.” OAR 471-030-0038(4). The standard is objective. McDowell v. Employment Department, 348 Or 605, 612, 236 P3d 722 (2010). A claimant who quits work must show that no reasonable and prudent person would have continued to work for their employer for an additional period of time. For a claimant to have good cause to voluntarily leave work, the claimant must derive some benefit for leaving work. Oregon Public Utility Commission v. Employment Dep’t., 267 Or App 68, 340 P3d 136 (2014).

Pursuant to ORS 657.176(11), an individual may not be deemed to have voluntarily quit work without good cause but shall be deemed laid off if the individual: (a) works under a collective bargaining agreement, (b) elects to be laid off when the employer has decided to lay off employees, and (c) is placed on a referral list under the collective bargaining agreement.

Claimant left work without good cause when she volunteered to be laid off by the employer. According to the employer’s method for selecting employees for layoff, claimant was not at risk of being laid off, and the employer had continuing work available for her. Claimant’s desire to prevent another employee from losing their job did not constitute a reason of such gravity that claimant had no reasonable alternative but to leave work. Nor does the record show that claimant otherwise derived any benefit from her decision to voluntarily leave work. Likewise, claimant was not entitled to the benefit of ORS 657.176(11) because the record shows that her employment was not governed by a collective bargaining agreement. Because claimant has failed to establish that the reason she left work was of such gravity that she had no reasonable alternative but to leave work, claimant quit work without good cause and is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits.
