EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2021-EAB-0770

Affirmed
No Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On August 6, 2021, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that the employer discharged claimant, but not for misconduct, and that claimant was not disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits on the basis of the work separation (decision # 125820). The employer filed a timely request for hearing. On September 21, 2021, ALJ Janzen conducted a hearing, and on September 22, 2021, issued Order No. 21-UI-175299, affirming decision # 125820. On September 27, 2021, the employer filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

WRITTEN ARGUMENT: EAB did not consider the employer's written argument when reaching this decision because they did not include a statement declaring that they provided a copy of their argument to the opposing party or parties as required by OAR 471-041-0080(2)(a) (May 13, 2019).

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Osprey Point RV Resort employed claimant as a maintenance worker and groundskeeper from April 28, 2016 until July 9, 2021.

(2) The employer expected claimant to ensure that all the resort buildings, including guest cabins, were locked and secured to prevent damage to the resort. Claimant understood the employer's expectation.

(3) Claimant followed a routine when he did work in the employer's guest cabins. On July 8, 2021, claimant was repairing a cabin. Claimant was busy, and rather than follow his routine of locking the cabin, claimant left the cabin without locking it. Claimant forgot to return to lock the door to the cabin. Claimant did not recall leaving the cabin door unlocked, and it remained unlocked overnight.

(4) On July 9, 2021, the employer discharged claimant because he left the door of a guest cabin unlocked overnight on July 8, 2021.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: The employer discharged claimant, but not for misconduct.

ORS 657.176(2)(a) requires a disqualification from unemployment insurance benefits if the employer discharged claimant for misconduct connected with work. "As used in ORS 657.176(2)(a) . . . a willful or wantonly negligent violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee is misconduct. An act or series of actions that amount to a willful or wantonly negligent disregard of an employer's interest is misconduct." OAR 471-030-0038(3)(a) (September 22, 2020). "'[W]antonly negligent' means indifference to the consequences of an act or series of actions, or a failure to act or a series of failures to act, where the individual acting or failing to act is conscious of his or her conduct and knew or should have known that his or her conduct would probably result in a violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee." OAR 471-030-0038(1)(c). In a discharge case, the employer has the burden to establish misconduct by a preponderance of evidence. Babcock v. Employment Division, 25 Or App 661, 550 P2d 1233 (1976).

The proper initial focus of the misconduct analysis is on the incident that prompted the discharge. See e.g. Appeals Board Decision 12-AB-0434, March 16, 2012 (discharge analysis focuses on proximate cause of the discharge, which is generally the last incident of misconduct before the discharge); Appeals Board Decision 09-AB-1767, June 29, 2009 (discharge analysis focuses on proximate cause of discharge, which is the incident without which the discharge would not have occurred when it did). Only if the proximate cause of the discharge was misconduct will it be necessary to assess whether prior incidents were also misconduct. The record shows that although the owner alleged they gave claimant multiple warnings for violating their expectations during the year preceding claimant's discharge, it was claimant's failure to lock a guest cabin on July 8, 2021 that prompted the employer to discharge claimant that day. Transcript 7-13. We therefore focus on claimant's July 8, 2021 conduct to determine whether claimant violated the employer's expectations willfully or with wanton negligence. We address prior incidents only if necessary to determine whether claimant's conduct on July 8, 2021 may be excused as an isolated instance of poor judgment under OAR 471-030-0038(1)(d) and OAR 471-030-0038(3)(b).

The employer had a right to expect claimant to lock its buildings and guest cabins to prevent damage to their property. Claimant knew that expectation. Claimant followed a routine in completing his duties, and arguably should not have forgotten to lock the guest cabin as part of his routine. However, the record fails to show that claimant consciously neglected to include locking the guest cabin as a step in his routine, or that he consciously failed to lock the guest cabin on July 8, 2021. Claimant's failure to lock the guest cabin was careless, arguably negligent, but his conduct was not willful, and did not rise to the level of wanton negligence as defined OAR 471-030- 0038(1)(c). Claimant's conduct on July 8, 2021 was not misconduct and it is therefore unnecessary to assess other incidents of alleged misconduct to determine whether claimant's conduct can be excused as an isolated instance of poor judgment under OAR 471-030-0038(1)(d)(A) and OAR 471-030-0038(3)(b).

Claimant's discharge was not for misconduct. He is not disqualified from receiving benefits based on his work separation from the employer.

DECISION: Order No. 21-UI-175299 is affirmed.
