EMPLOYMENT APPEALS BOARD DECISION
2022-EAB-1059

Reversed
No Disqualification

PROCEDURAL HISTORY: On July 29, 2022, the Oregon Employment Department (the Department) served notice of an administrative decision concluding that claimant was discharged, but not for misconduct, and was not disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits based on the work separation (decision # 111418). The employer filed a timely request for hearing. On September 26, 2022, ALJ Moskowitz conducted a hearing, and on September 30, 2022 issued Order No. 22-UI-203913, reversing decision # 111418 by concluding claimant quit work without good cause and was disqualified from receiving benefits effective July 3, 2022. On October 19, 2022, claimant filed an application for review with the Employment Appeals Board (EAB).

FINDINGS OF FACT: (1) Rugby Holdings LLC employed claimant as a door factory worker from May 30, 2020 to July 6, 2022.

(2) On July 1, 2022, a coworker gave claimant a ride to work. This coworker was discharged during this shift. When the coworker was discharged, they left work before the end of the shift and claimant accompanied them rather than completing his shift.

(3) On July 5, 2022, claimant did not report for his assigned shift.

(4) On July 6, 2022, claimant reported to work but felt sick and began vomiting. He then informed the employer that he would need to leave early and left before the end of his shift.

(5) After claimant left work, claimant's supervisor reviewed claimant absences and decided to discharge claimant. The employer called claimant and discharged him on July 6, 2022.

CONCLUSIONS AND REASONS: Claimant was discharged, but not for misconduct.

ORS 657.176(2)(a) requires a disqualification from unemployment insurance benefits if the employer discharged claimant for misconduct connected with work. "As used in ORS 657.176(2)(a) . . . a willful or wantonly negligent violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee is misconduct. An act or series of actions that amount to a willful or wantonly negligent disregard of an employer's interest is misconduct." OAR 471-030-0038(3)(a) (September 22, 2020). "'[W]antonly negligent' means indifference to the consequences of an act or series of actions, or a failure to act or a series of failures to act, where the individual acting or failing to act is conscious of his or her conduct and knew or should have known that his or her conduct would probably result in a violation of the standards of behavior which an employer has the right to expect of an employee." OAR 471-030-0038(1)(c). In a discharge case, the employer has the burden to establish misconduct by a preponderance of evidence. Babcock v. Employment Division, 25 Or App 661, 550 P2d 1233 (1976). Absences due to illness or other physical or mental disabilities are not misconduct. OAR 471-030-0038(3)(b).

The order under review concluded that the employer discharged claimant for misconduct based on claimant's absences on July 1, 2022 and July 5, 2022. Order No. 22-UI-203913 at 4. The record does not support this conclusion.

The employer's witness testified that the employer discharged claimant because of violations of the employer's attendance policy on July 1, 2022, July 5, 2022, and July 6, 2022. Audio Record 15:30 to 16:25. However, the discharge analysis must focus on the incident that was the proximate cause of the discharge. See e.g. Appeals Board Decision 12-AB-0434, March 16, 2012 (discharge analysis focuses on proximate cause of the discharge, which is generally the last incident of misconduct before the discharge); Appeals Board Decision 09-AB-1767, June 29, 2009 (discharge analysis focuses on proximate cause of discharge, which is the incident without which the discharge would not have occurred when it did). Specifically, if the discharge is for attendance policy violations then the final violation is considered the proximate cause of the discharge.

Here, the final violation of the attendance policy occurred on July 6, 2022. The employer permitted claimant to continue working after the July 1, 2022 and July 5, 2022 violations, and only discharged claimant after the July 6, 2022 attendance violation. Further, the employer's witness testified that the July 6, 2022 absence was a reason the employer discharged claimant, and that he was unsure if the employer would have discharged claimant if he had worked a full shift on July 6, 2022. Audio Record 16:20 to 16:30; 16:40 to 16:50. Given that the employer bears the burden of proof, and that the final attendance policy violation is considered the proximate cause for discharge, the record fails to show that the proximate cause of the discharge was either earlier absence. Therefore, the proximate cause of the discharge was the July 6, 2022 attendance violation. The parties agreed that on July 6, 2022 claimant went home, before the end of his shift, because of an illness. Under OAR 471-030-0038(3)(b), absences due to illness are not misconduct. Accordingly, claimant's conduct on July 6, 2022 was not misconduct because it was an absence due to illness.

Claimant was discharged, but not for misconduct, and therefore is not disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits based on the work separation.

DECISION: Order No. 22-UI-203913 is set aside, as outlined above.
